● Digital Experience Platform

Your ECM and Portal, Seamlessly Integrated

Enterprise Content Management (ECM) platforms like Box, and Portals like Liferay Digital Experience Platform (DXP), are widely used in organizations today. These systems naturally complement each other, and when combined, can leverage the best of both worlds – secure content management, web publishing, collaboration & shared workspaces, social tools, and more.

Rivet Logic has integrated Box Platform and Liferay DXP into a seamless solution, enabling businesses to centrally manage their enterprise content in Box, while making that content accessible through a variety of business applications built on Liferay DXP, including intranets, customer portals, and partner portals.

ENRICHING DIGITAL EXPERIENCES WITH BOX CONTENT

Today's enterprises are producing an increasing amount of digital content on a daily basis – documents, marketing collateral, product brochures, digital assets, etc – that need to be centrally managed through a secure ECM solution like Box.

However, your content is only as valuable as its findability. To achieve maximum value, your content also needs to be easily discoverable and accessible through various business applications used throughout the organization, including Liferay. Liferay is an industry-leading digital experience platform that provides the foundation for modern businesses to build unified digital experiences, such as websites, intranets, customer portals, mobile apps, and more.

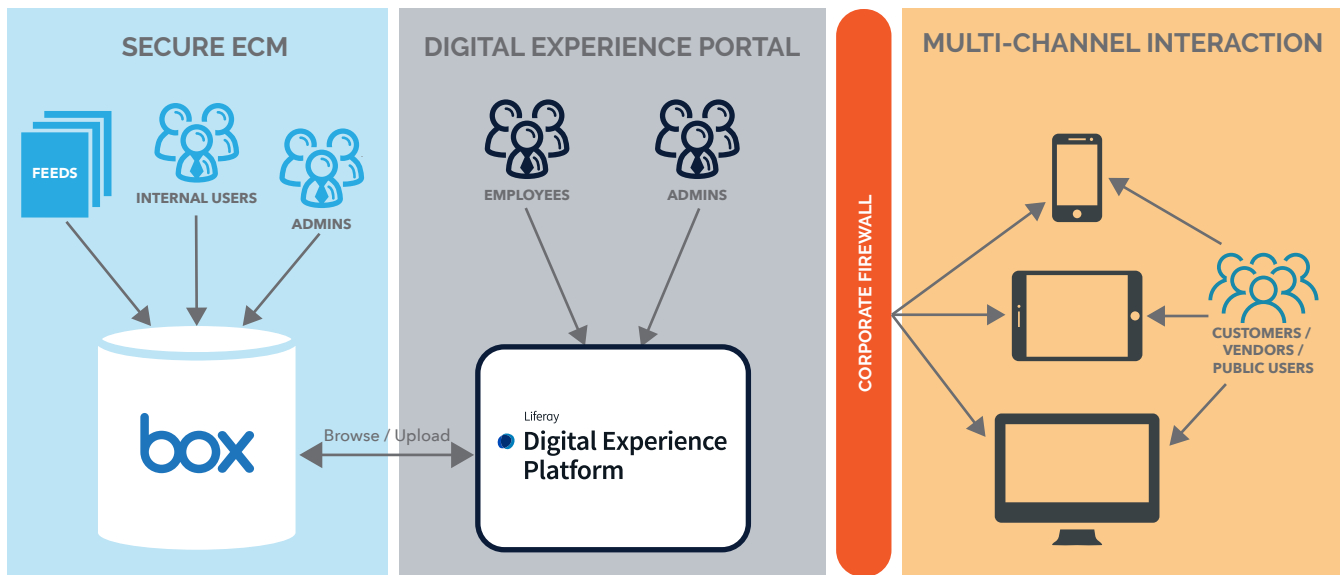

COMMON USE CASES

- Corporate intranet that needs access to HR policies and documents
- Partner portal that needs updated versions of brand assets to share with partners
- Patient portal where patients can access HIPAA compliant personal health information
- Customer portal where clients can access their invoices and other supporting documentation
- And more...

As an industry-leading portal platform, Liferay DXP provides the foundation for modern businesses to build great digital experience solutions, including enterprise websites, customer portals, mobile apps, and more. While Liferay DXP's built-in content management capabilities are great for experiences built and managed in Liferay, large enterprises who use Liferay as one of many content delivery channels need to integrate Liferay with their central ECM system.

By integrating Box and Liferay, businesses can tap into their centrally stored enterprise content in Box through their Liferay powered digital experience solutions, maximizing the effectiveness of both solutions.
